8TH ARMY CAPTURES TAKROUNA; 20 MORE BIG TRANSPORTS BAGGED

U. S. BOMBERS TO BLAST JAPAN AGAIN "SOON"

Doolittle Promises New Attack on Homeland of Enemy; Pacific Airmen Active.

By The Associated Press

Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle's prediction that American fliers would strike Japan again "soon" was borne out today by news of widespread aerial blows against Japanese bases in the southwest Pacific and in Burma.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said United Nations airmen had hurled half a dozen enemy bases in the arc of islands above Australia, concentrating on the port of Nassau bay in northern New Guinea.

Allied bombers inflicted heavy damage on already depleted Japanese supplies and equipment in the area, it was announced.

Enemy forces in the area were described as beset by lack of food and medicine, with may troops ill and hungry.

At allied headquarters in North Africa, Maj. Gen. Doolittle declared that when U. S. fliers hit Tokyo again it would be "a devastating attack that will continue until the Japanese empire crumbles and they beg for mercy."

In Washington, the war department said new raids on Tokyo were a decided possibility.

On the Burma front, British headquarters reported allied bombers renewed the assault on Rangoon, raided three enemy airdromes and bombed and machine-gunned Japanese troops in the upper Chindwin area.

Doolittle Pledges New Blow at Tokyo

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 23—American fliers, undaunted by Japan's execution of their fellow-pilots, will bomb Japan again "soon" and the bombs will find their targets, avers Major Gen. James H. Doolittle.

The flier who led the first American raid on Tokyo and other Japanese cities last April—and ordered his fliers to spare Emperor Hirohito's palace because it was not a military objective—said he and the other airmen on that mission "want to be on the next raid over Japan. * * * we will drop each bomb in memory of our murdered comrades. Our bombs will not be missing their mark."

General Doolittle said his first reaction to President Roosevelt's announcement of the news that some of the eight American fliers captured after the 1942 raid had been executed was "regret that such wanton barbarity could still exist in the civilized world."

Then, he said, he "could only feel a deep loathing and resentment toward the war leaders who are responsible for the act. * * * there must be a futile hope in the perverted Japanese mind that the American people can be intimidated by such atrocities.

"Actually the Japanese announcement will have the opposite effect.

"We do not seek revenge but we do want to have a fighting part in correcting a situation that threatens everything we hold dear. Our job is utterly and completely to defeat the Japanese naton and everything her war lords stand for. This can only be accomplished by striking at the heart of Japan itself. We started it a year ago.

"Soon our bombers will be over again. Not like last year's single effort but a devastating attack that will continue until the Japanese empire crumbles and they beg for mercy."

2 OTHER MARIONITES AIDED DOOLITTLE

Jack Gamble, Carroll Williams Helped Prepare Tokyo Raid.

Two more Marion men have been identified as having a part in the preliminary arrangements for the historical raid conducted by Lieut. Gen. Jimmie Doolittle on Tokyo a year ago.

They are Jack Gamble, son of Mr. and Willie Gamble of 848 Davids street, and Carroll Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Williams of 393 Girard avenue.

Lieut. Gamble, recently awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and recipient of a citation signed by Admiral W. F. Halsey, commander of the South Pacific fleet, was stationed aboard the aircraft carrier Hornet which carried Gen. Doolittle and his bombers to within several hundred miles of Tokyo for the unforgettable surprise attack.

An article in The Star earlier this week told of Wayne Self, pharmacist's mate, second class, U. S. N., a member of the crew of the Hornet.

2,000 MINERS STRIKE TODAY

Blame Unrest Among Workers for Walkout in Pittsburgh Mine Area.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, April 23 — A walkout of more than 2,000 soft coal miners, producing 12,000 tons of fuel daily for steel mills, was blamed today on "tremendous unrest of the workers" by a United Mine Workers official who joined two others in predicting a general coal strike unless the union-operator deadlock over wages is broken by May 1.

Joseph Yablonsky, international board member of district 5 (Pittsburgh), said the immediate cause of a work stoppage at three pits of the Republic Steel Corp. Wednesday and Thursday was the appearance of Pennsylvania motor police during a controversy involving 20 men, but added:

"In the background is the tremendous unrest of the men * * * against the stalling tactics of the operators."

Declaring that the miners also resent "the placing of their own just demands for more money before the war labor board" because "they know the cards are stacked against them there," Yablonsky said, "I don't believe anybody can keep them at work after May 1 unless a new agreement is signed."

While nearly 1,000 men left their jobs last night at the Isabella mine of the Weirton Coal Co., a National Steel Corp. subsidiary, the vice presidents of two West Virginia districts, William Blizzard of Charleston (17) district and Cecil J. Urbaniak of Fairmont (31), said flatly the miners would not work after April 30 without a new contract.

The company said the men made no explanation of the Isabella walkout while a union spokesman said the stoppage, which followed by a few hours Secretary of Labor Perkins' certification of the wage dispute to the WLB, developed from the transfer of three men.

Burch Corporation Receives Million-Dollar Order.

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, O., April 23—The Burch corporation of Crestline has received a million-dollar order for snow plows from the United States Army Engineers, and is embarking on a six-month period of work to fill the order that will involve an employment increase of approximately 20 per cent.

The company has been virtually 100 per cent on war work for more than a year, J. L. Morrow, manager, said.

Naval Inspector Found Guilty of Sabotage

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, April 23 — A 21-year-old former Naval inspector at the Glenn L. Martin aircraft plant was being held by the U. S. marshal's office today for sentencing on four charges of damaging planes under construction.

The young man, Harvey Lee Thomas, 21, of Adamstown, Md., was convicted on four charges and acquitted on two. All charges were of violating the federal anti-sabotage statutes.

Federal Judge William C. Coleman at one point during the three-day trial referred to what he termed "the evident lack of cooperation, to say the least, between the Navy, the Martin Co. and the FBI."

Thomas, being held for sentencing on Monday, told the jury he aggravated damage to defective parts only so that Martin workmen could correct the faults.

HILL PICTURES TRIALS OF U. S. FLIERS IN JAPAN

Declares Justice as We Know It Does Not Exist in Japanese Courts.

By MAX HILL

NEW YORK, April 23—Justice as we know it doesn't exist in Japan—a man is guilty because of the confession forced from him before he ever sets foot in the courtroom.

My own experiences in Sugamo prison and in the civil court were harrowing enough, but a man in the diabolical hands of the military police would merely shrug and laugh at such minor inconveniences.

The Doolittle aviators who were executed after what the Japanese had the effrontery to call a trial undoubtedly were turned over to the gendarmes, and those still alive are prisoners in damp, vermin-ridden dungeons.

The Japanese gendarmes could teach Hitler's gestapo new tricks in torture, both mental and physical. And their boss is no other than Premier Tojo in his capacity as war minister.

Trial of the captured aviators, reported to be at least eight in number, couldn't have been anything but a farce. Yet, in their perverted way of thinking, the Japanese probably are boasting among themselves of the "fair" treatment meted out to helpless prisoners.

Japan signed the Geneva convention, which set up certain rules of warfare to which all contracting nations agreed. The captured American fliers were prisoners of war, plain and simple. They were not spies.

Seeks Legal Cloak

Japan had agreed, in signing the Geneva convention, to treat them as such. With typical evasion she broke her word, and has tried to cloak the murders with legal sanctity.

Seven American newspapermen in Tokyo received a bitter dose of the same treatment, as did numerous businessmen and missionaries, one of whom was beaten, kicked and given the water cure merely because he had in his possession a pamphlet which said "Lord of Lords, King of Kings." The tribute to Jesus, the gendarmes growled, was slander and part of a plot against Emperor Hirohito.

Let me tell you, briefly, my own experiences with Japanese justice, and remember that I am speaking of civil authorities and not the even more brutal gendarmes.

I was shoved into a five and

PROGRAM FOR SCHOOL EASTER SERVICE SET

Annual Morning Worship To Be at Harding Tomb.

The annual Harding High school Easter morning service, sponsored by the Hi-Y and Girl Reserve clubs of Harding, will be held at the Harding tomb starting at 7:30.

"Fanfare" will be played by the brass sextet, made up of Sanford Paul, Robert Boyd, Eleanor Myers, Melbourne Donaugh, William Wetterauer and Jack Loeffert. Miss Ruth Ann Abel, president of the Harding Girl Reserves, will give the call to worship.

Two hymns, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" and "Christ Arose" will be sung, accompanied by the organ, under the direction of L. G. Jones, director of vocal music in the Marion schools. Bud Wiant, vice president of the Senior Hi-Y club, will give a Scripture reading.

A prayer, led by Miss Betty Bond, president of the Edison Girl Reserves, will follow a medley of special music by the brass sextet.

"Easter Still Dawns," is the message to be given by Miss Margaret Huffman, director of Christian education at the Epworth Methodist church. Russell Midlam, president of the Edison Hi-Y club, will conclude with a benediction.

In the event of rain the services will be held at Epworth Methodist church.

WAACS REPLACE SOLDIERS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 23—The fifth service command reported today 353 WAACS had taken over duties formerly performed by 356 service men, relieving the latter for field duty, officer candidate school or warrant officer assignments.

America Will Remember . . . . With More Bombs

TODAY, tomorrow, every day till this ghastly war has been brought to a finish by total destruction of the enemy's fighting ability, Americans will remember the execution of their young men as Japanese prisoners.

This is better to remember than the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, Germany's savage bombing of Rotterdam, or Italy's cowardly stab in the back when France was reeling. This is the final proof—if any is really needed — that we are sending our young men into battle against more than military antagonists. They are fighting against organized frightfulness, barbarity and horror.

This is something to remember when there is a war job to be done here at home, perhaps a voluntary job, perhaps a paid job. DO IT NOW AND DO IT WELL!

It is something to remember when the war seems far away—someone else's responsibility—something that can't touch Americans living safely at home.

It is something to remember when buying a War Bond. Perhaps it should be two Bonds, instead. What better use can money be put to now?

It is something to remember when there is temptation to take a day off, to let the other fellow take care of things.

It is something to remember when someone begins to yelp about the way the war is being run, or about the way things are going here at home. Sure, things go wrong. But the way to make them go better is to get in there and pitch. War is no game for bleacher umpires. . . . a young American facing a Japanese firing squad on a trumped-up charge in a trumped-up court in a trumped-up country.

. . . . no one to plead his case. All alone in a country controlled by a savage military clique.

. . . the rattle of gunfire, a straight body crumpling to the ground, the toothy grins of the executioners.

Yes, this is something to remember, something that won't be forgotten until official orders have been carried out and Japan's eager proof that it is fit to fight beside the Nazis has been avenged.

Clifton Curtis, Old-Time Baseball Player, Stricken

Ohioan Long in Big Leagues Dies Suddenly; Brother of Bert Curtis of Marion.

Clifton Garfield Curtis, 61, brother of A. W. "Bert" Curtis of 625 South Prospect street and a pitcher in the American Association and National league for 17 years, died at 4 a. m. today at his home in Utica, Licking county.

Death was caused by a heart attack suffered early Thursday morning.

Mr. Curtis had another heart attack two weeks ago while fighting a grass fire at the rear of his home. He apparently suffered no ill effects from that attack for he continued to be active in the operation of a Ford motor car agency in Utica and also as a member of the Newark All-Star Bowling league.

According to a close friend of the family at Utica, Mr. Curtis bowled Wednesday night, averaging 185 in three games. For many years since retiring from organized baseball, he bowled regularly and was recognized as one of the outstanding bowlers in both Knox and Licking counties.

Native of Delaware

Mr. Curtis, born in Delaware July 3, 1881, participated in baseball and basketball while attending Delaware High school. Besides holding down a center berth on the high school basketball team, he played with a city league team. Both he and his brother Bert played with a number of teams throughout the state. The two teamed up as a battery with Cliff pitching and Bert receiving. Among the teams they played with were the old Hogan's Runts, one of Marion's most famous old-time semi-pro teams.

Unusual is the fact that he began and ended his organized baseball career with the Columbus team of the American Association, generally recognized as a stepping stone to the major leagues. He joined Columbus around 1900 and played there one season. In the next six years he played first with Ft. Wayne, next with Milwaukee and later with Indianapolis.

In 1909 he joined the Boston team of the National league, remaining with the Bean Town team for two seasons. For the 1911 season Boston traded him to the Chicago Cubs, also of the National league. The following season he played with both the Brooklyn

BANKS OPEN TONIGHT

Loan Association Also in Extra Hour Program.

Marion banks and savings and loan associations will be open from 5 to 7 o'clock tonight in the first Friday night extra-hour service arranged at the request of the Marion Area War Manpower committee in its efforts to curb absenteeism among Marion war industrial workers.

The Marion Federal Savings & Loan association and the Home Building Savings & Loan association today announced their plans to remain open extra hours on the same schedule previously adopted by the city's three banks.

The Marion-Reserve Power Co. also has joined in the extra hour schedule, extending its regular Friday hours two hours to include the 5 to 7 schedule.

WAR BOND BANQUET PLANS TAKING SHAPE

State Drive Heads Expected for Award Dinner Thursday.

When the Marion County War Bond committee receives a scroll citation and special honor flag in recognition of Marion county having been named Ohio's Champion War Bond County for March, at a banquet April 29, at Hotel Harding, nine other awards will be given to regional war bond champions for the month. The awards are provided by the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, which also will sponsor the banquet.

Expected to be present for the banquet and program are Harold H. Bredlow, executive secretary of the Ohio war savings staff, Philip J. Trounstine, state chairman, and Herbert E. Dieter, assistant administrator.

Music for the dinner program will be by the a cappella choir of Harding High school and Miss Virginia Grover, pianist. Elmer J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the Marion County war bond staff, will be in charge of the meeting. Arrangements are being made locally by a committee composed of J. P. Sharkey, division manager of the Standard Oil Co., Charles E. Sechrist, E. E. Holt and Earl J. Pierce.

JAPS ISSUE NEW WARNING AGAINST RAIDS

Tokyo Declares Intention To Punish Fliers Who Fall Into Their Hands.

By The Associated Press

The Berlin radio in a Tokyo dispatch, reported today the Japanese government in a note Feb. 17 to the United States government declared its intention "to punish severely those members of aircraft crews who, following attack on Japanese territory, Manchukuo and on areas of Japanese military operations, have fallen into the hands of Japanese authorities and have been found guilty of having committed cruel and inhuman acts * * *."

This was the broadest Japanese warning yet reported, exceeding the territory covered in a warning reported today by the Tokyo radio itself.

Both broadcasts were recorded by The Associated Press.

Denies Mistreatment

The Tokyo radio said Tomokazu Hori, spokesman of the cabinet board of information, denied today that American fliers captured after last year's Japan raid had been mistreated and asserted:

"Japan can never agree with the absurd and groundless contention that the mere fact that enemy soldiers are wearing military uniforms make them immune from responsibility of willfully committing any and all kinds of inhuman acts."

He then accused American authorities of resorting "to cheap name-calling to whip up waning morale of the people by fanning hatred toward Japan" by releasing the text of an American protest "against alleged mistreatment of American airmen who were captured."

This communication, he alleged, was received only today by the Japanese government.

"Our attitude on this question already had been made clear beyond any argument by the following official statements," Hori was quoted as saying.

"Firstly, on Oct. 19, 1942, the director of the Army press section of imperial headquarters issued a statement which said: 'As a result of investigation of captured members of crews of American airplanes who raided the mainland on April 18 this year, those who ignored the principles of humanity have been severely punished in accordance with military law.'

Issues Proclamation

"Secondly, on the same day the commander of general headquarters for home defense issued the following proclamation: 'If members of the crews of enemy aircraft who raid the territory of Japan and come within the reaches of our authority are found to have committed a cruel and inhuman act, the same shall be tried before military court and punished with death or severe penalty.'"

Hori said the Japanese government notified the United States, through a protecting power, last February that "capital punishment was meted out to part" of the American airmen captured after last year's raid.

He added that the Japanese notification continued in effect as follows: "The policy is pursued strictly on the basis of cruel and inhuman conduct with the view to minimizing to the utmost the calamities of war; treatment as prisoners of war will not be refused merely for reasons of an air raid."

Hori went on to assert that the Japanese "are always ready to accord as human and generous treatment as possible to enemies, as is now being done, this readiness being predicated on the self-evident condition that the enemy also acts humanely, honorable and does not commit acts of inhuman cruelty."

NAMED BANK DIRECTOR

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 23—Appointment of Archie J. McFarland of Wheeling, W. Va., president of Wheeling Steel Corp., as director of the federal reserve bank's Pittsburgh branch was announced today.

War Summary

AFRICA—British drive six miles past Enfidaville. Allies bag 20 more Nazi transport planes.

TOKYO—Japanese declare intention to punish airmen who fall into hands of authorities.

RUSSIA — Germans strengthen air and land attack in Kuban area but Russian armies hold fast.

NAZIS SHIFT AIR STRENGTH

Land Forces Also Strengthened for Attack on Reds in Kuban Delta Area.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, April 23—The Germans hourly have reinforced their land armies in the Kuban and have shifted hundreds of their bomber and fighter planes into the Crimea for use in the North Caucasian battles, but despite incessant attacks by these new forces the Germans have failed to dent the Russian line, it was declared today.

Red Star, the army newspaper, said the Nazis were employing numerous Rumanian troops and that during the last few days had forced them to spearhead the assaults which are costing them hundreds of dead.

The noon communique told of 500 of the enemy slaughtered in two Kuban sectors alone in the last 12 hours, bringing the toll for the last 20 hours well above 800.

North of Chuguev, on the Donets river, a group of Germans attempted to cross to the eastern bank but Soviet gunfire mowed them down at the water's edge.

This was no effort to cross the Donets in force but appeared to be an attempt by a strong scouting party to establish a foothold on the Russian-held bank and hold it until reinforcements arrive.

But the battle of the Kuban remained the principal conflict where the Germans' losses approximate 4,000 dead since they began their attacks, it was estimated.

Red Star, describing the intensity of the German thrusts, said that in one sector infantry and tanks attacked in seven waves and that two more tank drives followed.

The dry ground in the Crimea was furnishing the German air force with striking bases. Heinkel-111's, Junkers-86's, and Junkers-87's, as well as a new squadron of Messerschmitts, are attacking the Russian positions, in groups of 15 and 20, Red Star said.

DATE SET FOR BIDS ON HOSPITAL WORK

City Fixes May 25 To Open Contractors' Offers.

May 25 has been set as the date for opening of bids on the proposed City hospital improvement program, indicating that construction of the war-type frame addition and remodeling of the present building will begin early in the summer.

At its last meeting, city council authorized issuance of notes in the amount of $35,000 in anticipation of issuing bonds for the city's share in the project which will cost a total of $100,800. Of this amount the federal grant is for $47,800 and the city's share is $18,000. The city okayed issuance of $35,000 in bonds of which $16,000 will be used for purchasing equipment.

The date for opening of bids is listed in a legal advertisement appearing in The Star today requesting bids on the construction of a war-type addition to the hospital.

The project as approved by the hospital board several months ago calls for construction of a one-story wing extending westward from the south end of the present building.

EVERY PLANE IN BIG CONVOY IS SHOT DOWN

British Army Pushes Six Miles Past Enfidaville in Hard Battle.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 23—The British Eighth army has captured Takrouna and pushed six miles from Enfidaville toward Bou Ficha in twin drives northward and the British First army has stabbed ahead three miles against stubborn axis resistance in the Bou Arada sector on the western Tunisian front, it was announced today.

These gains aground were coupled with aerial action during which Kittyhawks and Spitfires shot down every one of twenty six-engined Messerschmitt 323s, some carrying troops and others laden with freight, and ten of their escorting fighters encountered over the gulf of Tunis.

The giant Messerschmitt transports, which dwarf such carriers as the Junkers 52s upon which Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has relied largey for reinforcements and supplies, are designed to carry 120 soldiers or almost 10 tons of cargo.

In all, 38 axis planes were shot down during the day, against an announced loss of five allied aircraft.

The battle with the transports, regarded here as the most important stroke against enemy supply lines since the start of war, lasted less than 10 minutes. Planes burst from many of the great carriers as they were hit by the fighter bursts. All the transports and the 10 fighters dropped in the sparkling gulf, the sea approach to Tunis. Observers said some transports appeared to be carrying gasoline. Troops who broke clear of the wreckage were seen struggling in the water.

Ground Action Intense

The ground action again was on a large scale.

Lieut. Gen. J. A. N. Anderson attacked on a nine-mile front between Goubellat and Bou Arada, south of Medjez-El-Bab, and pushed eastward three miles to tighten the pressure upon the Germans and Italians seeking to hold positions along the grand dorsal range to protect Rommel's right and rear. Resistance, however, was described as stubborn.

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's weather-bronzed fighters, after hours of bayonet and grenade fighting, were securely astride the two roads which lead from captured Enfidaville northward, one inland and the other a coastal route.

The fortified Takrouna mountain, topped by a Berber citadel, lies five miles northwest of Enfidaville on the inland route to strategic Zaghouan, 28 miles air line south of Tunis.

INSERT—AD AFRICA . . . . .

Combined, the Eighth Army and First Army maneuvers represented a pincers movement against the axis southern mountain positions. The most widespread and bloodiest fighting of the campaign flared along the entire Tunisian front.

Vigorous fighting continued in the Medjez-El-Bab region and it was apparent Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, commander of the whole 18th Army group, was seeking to increase the pressure upon the whole axis line to the breaking point.

Boston bombers showered Long Stop hill with explosives in one phase of a sweeping aerial offensive against axis strongholds before the First Army lines.

The Eighth Army push from Enfidaville to Bou Ficha was through marshy land against axis resistance described as "extremely difficult and most stubborn." A spokesman said that "each inch of ground is being vigorously contested."

The allied air offensive slashed at German and Italian air strength with savage and continuous assaults by American and British squadrons.

Britons, Australians and South Africans manned the Kittyhawks and Spitfires which sent the Messerschmitt transports and the 10 axis fighters to destruction.

"They were flying 50 feet off

FOOD TAX REPEALER TO BE RECONSIDERED

McCullouch Says Measure Will Come Up Next Week.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 23—Speaker William M. McCulloch said today house Republicans probably would caucus "at the earliest convenient date next week" to consider anew an administration-sponsored bill to remove the sales tax from food served in restaurants.

The measure has been bogged in the house taxation committee since passed by the senate last Jan. 26. McCulloch said after an April 7 caucus that house Republicans agreed unanimously the bill "should go no farther."

McCulloch expressed belief the caucus action was binding on the committee and said that in view of the governor's stand, another caucus probably would be held. Bricker in his inaugural address called for removal of the tax from restaurant food and medical prescriptions.

Hamilton county representatives issued a statement in Cincinnati last night which estimated repeal of the sales tax on restaurant food would in two years leave Ohio with an unencumbered surplus of only $340,000.

The nine-member Republican delegation said $17,000,000 of the $46,000,000 surplus reported by Governor Bricker Jan. 1 had been tagged for post-war building and added:

"Nevertheless, it is a fact that according to the governor's estimates, the expenditures * * * for the next two years will exceed by approximately $29,000,000 the anticipated revenues * * * after deducting the tax reduction [illegible] by the governor. This would leave a unencumbered balance estimated by the governor at $340,000 on Dec. 31, 1943."

STATES POSITION ON FOOD SALES TAX QUESTION

Earl E. Thomas Outlines Views On Exempting Food.

Earl E. Thomas, Marion county representative in the state legislature, today issued a statement to The Star to clarify his position on two changes Governor Bricker has proposed in state sales tax regulations.

He declared he has always been in favor of repealing the sales tax on food consumed on the premises, pointing out it is in his opinion highly inconsistent to levy a tax on this food and yet exempt food sold for consumption in the home. He added this has been his view on the question for many months and not because such action was requested by the governor.

At the same time, he said he did not agree with the governor's proposal to take the tax off of drugs used in filling prescriptions. He said his view is that either all drugs should be taxed or none.

Regarding reports that a caucus of G.O.P. legislators had been held in which those taking part bound themselves in an agreement on how they would vote on the sales tax matter, he said he excused himself from the caucus when the matter of a binding agreement was mentioned and that he kept himself free to vote as he might choose.

Oklahoma City Goes on Bond Buying Spree

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 23—A feverish buying spree paid tribute yesterday to Oklahoma pioneers—and slapped the Japs for killing American airmen.

The city's 244,000 residents bought $40,000,000 worth of war bonds in a single day—the 54th anniversary of the historic run of '89, when the territory was opened to white settlement.

Remove Restrictions on Truck Tire Recaps

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 23—OPA directed ration boards today to remove on May 1 quota restrictions on recapping of truck tires.

The agency said after consultation with Rubber Director William M. Jeffers, who said recapping materials were available for the program, that it was better to "provide recapping as soon as needed rather than risk ruin of some casings that might be driven beyond the recapping point."

Quarantine Considered To Fight Smallpox

By The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 23—Health Commissioner C. F. McClintic made tentative plans today for a quarantine in the Weirton-Steubenville, O., smallpox threatened area that would stop river boat crew members from coming ashore.

McClintic said the plan had the approval of Ohio Health Commissioner R. H. Markwith. River men would be compelled to produce a certificate showing that they had been vaccinated against smallpox before being permitted to land.

There was some question of law enforcement on the Ohio side where the health department lacks certain authority. McClintic continued, adding the U. S. public health service might be asked to lend assistance.

Troops Wage War Against Axis Along Adriatic.

By The Associated Press

BERN, SWITZERLAND, April 23—The unconquered guerrilla Army of Yugoslavia, reinforced with airplanes, tanks and armored trains, is waging full-scale war against axis troops in rugged upland terrain adjoining the Adriatic, according to a dispatch from Budapest.

Quoting a Zagreb report to the newspaper "Magyar Nemzet" the dispatch declared "veritable war" is under way in the Bosnia and Hercegovina sectors of western Serbia. Strong axis operations against the guerrilla forces of Gen. Draja Mihailovic are "necessary to safeguard this bastion of the continent against possible allied invasion," the report added.

The size of the operations was indicated by an Italian admission that in that area last month 1,659 Italians were killed or wounded and another 1,862 were missing. German forces are engaged, too, but there has been no announcement of losses.

The Budapest dispatch said "the men of the forest" displayed no mercy towards the Ustachi, Pavelic's storm troopers, but did not harm the Croatian troops fighting with the axis, some of whom also are enrolled in the guerrilla ranks.

LEADING EXPONENT of the "skip bombing" method of aerial attack used so successfully in the Southwest Pacific, Maj. Kenneth D. McCullar, 27, above, of Courtland, Miss., was killed ironically by a baby kangaroo. The animal was struck by the major's bomber as it was taking off from an airbase and the plane crashed, exploding its load of bombs. Major McCullar was credited with sinking or damaging more than 20 Jap warships and merchantmen in Pacific attacks. (International)

EASTER'S MEANING TODAY—3: The Crucifixion

By THE RT. REV. MSGR. FULTON J. SHEEN

Professor Of Fundamental Theology, Catholic University

Written for Associated Press Features

Dore: Raising The Cross

LOOKING out on the Four Horsemen spreading death, disease, war and famine over the earth, we are tempted to ask, "Why does God let this happen?"

That is an incomplete sentence, from the theological point of view. Finish it and it reads this way: "Why does God let this happen to Himself?" What a different light it casts on the tragedy of war to realize that in some mysterious way Christ is living, suffering, thirsting, starving, being imprisoned and dying in us, and that this War is His Passion.

The Crucifixion on Good Friday is not only something that happened 1900 years ago, it is something that is happening now as the Cross is erected in our midst today. From a spiritual point of view there are no national causes, there is only the conflict of those who crucify Christ and those who are crucified with Him. Consider first how Christ is made to suffer today by those who crucify: The Pilates and the executioners.

Today's Judases

Judas still roams the world in the person of all who were baptized to Christ and called to be one with Him, but who have fallen away from their high destiny by "selling out." Run through the names of the leaders of the totalitarian states, and in each instance you will find dictators and leaders who in their youth were signed with the sign of the Cross, sealed with the seal of salvation, and then like JuJdas bargained away their Christian heritage for thirty pieces of silver from the coffers of a transitory political power. Thumb over the lists of other nations and you will discover that those leaders who either welcomed international congresses of milliant atheists to their midst or turned their backs on the rights of religion were those who, like Judas, were once called to be defenders of these rights and soldiers of Christ. Those who do most harm to the cause of Christ are not those whose souls were left barren in their naturalism, but those called like Judas to live and move with the Son of God. The Christ in the Garden of Gethsemane still has His lips blistered by a kiss, and in His last gracious move to win them back, He still whispers: "Judas, dost thou betray the Son of Man with a kiss?" (Luke 23:38)

Pilate still lives. He lives in all those teachers and jurists who deny an absolute; who feel that right and wrong are only points of view; who flatter themselves on their broadmindedness as they allow the mob to choose between Barrabas and Christ; who have a feeling that possibly Christ is the Son of God, but who would not assert it, lest they lose favor with Caesar; who, when they are brought face to face unequivocally with Divine Truth, ask the same question asked by Pilate: "What is Truth?" and then turn their backs on it. We can put the Creed therefore in the present tense: "Christ is suffering under Pontius Pilate."

The executioners still walk the earth: brutal, blind forces, which ignore the Divine, take orders from higher-ups, persecute the Christ in His Church and His Apostles, profane His Eucharistic Presence, nail His Mystical Body to a tree and then, with the calmness of their ancestors beneath Calvary, shake dice, "sit and watch" while before them is being re-enacted the tremendous drama of the world.

God Not Apart

We are not to think of God as standing outside the sufferings of the world, apart and aloof, in the untroubled serenity of heaven. God is not a spectator to the drama of suffering; He has come down as its greatest Tragedian and as sin's greatest Victim. If He points to a forest and bids us enter, it is because His feet have already made the pathway through the thickets and the thorns. If He bids us take up a Cross daily and follow Him, it is because He has already borne the brunt of it on His shoulders. God is not outside the tears and the tragedy of life; in every pang that rends the heart of a man, woman or child, God has His share.

We cannot meet the cross in our respective walks of life but that He already took it at the foot of Pilate's temple and made it the badge of His glory and the symbol of a Christian.

We cannot have feet tired and worn from the service of others but that His own were calloused from going about doing good and nailed to a Cross for having been too good.

We cannot have the sorrow of losing friends or a mother but that He himself already felt the rent in His Own Heart, as He left a friend and a mother on the gibbet of a Cross.

If our lot in war is the lot of tragedy and suffering and sacrifice, it will be done gladly because He is in us once more, redeeming a world!

FRANK BROS.

Here's One Argument I'm GLAD I Lost!

I DON'T remember exactly how we got into a discussion about bread the other evening, but somehow or other I made the flat statement that "bread is bread and they're all alike."

My husband chose to take issue on the subject and we had a "merry time" of it for a few moments. He acting kind of smug, and me—well just sort of talking. Until I got myself out on a limb by saying, "Well all bread is made with flour and yeast and the same other ingredients!"

"That's true, my dear," he said, "but let's also say that all automobiles are made of metal. I think you'll agree, however, that the end result is quite different!"

He had me there, of course, and the argument ended. But when I thought about it next morning, I decided to see if there was a difference in bread. If there was one that really stood out.

In my "trying around" I hit on Omar Bread. And if you haven't tried it, you're in for a grand and delightful surprise. It makes such marvelous toast and tastes so fresh and nice—well, it's just such good eating that I'm glad I lost the argument.

Try Omar Bread and see what you think.

HY-SCORE BAKING METHOD GUARDS OMAR'S GOODNESS

CRUST. Golden-brown. Smooth and soft.
TEXTURE. Fully-developed cell structure. Cake-like appearance.
FLAVOR. Fresh, wholesome, wheaty aroma and a delightful taste that everyone enjoys.

VITAMINS AND MINERALS. Enriched with Vitamin B_1, Niacin and Iron in food form for nerve health, good digestion and good blood.
FRESHNESS. Out-of-the-Oven freshness that brings out the best in good bread.

How does the bread you are now using compare with Omar on these important qualities?

16 Allied Ships Sunk, German Reports Say

By The Associated Press

Sixteen allied merchant ships totaling 121,500 tons, two destroyers and a submarine were declared in a German high command communique today to have been sunk from convoys by Nazi U-boats recently.

The communique, broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, said the merchantmen included "several fully occupied troop transports." Its claims were without confirmation.

Two other ships were reported damaged by torpedo hits.

EXPENDITURES AWE NEW CONGRESSMAN

Guard Over Costs Proposed by Sandusky Republican.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 23—A first-term representative from Ohio, awed by big government expenses, wants congress to try doling out the money in installments for economy's sake.

Rep. Al Weichel, Sandusky Republican, isn't accusing anyone of deliberately wasting cash, but he is sure some of the departments get too big a chunk at a time.

So he has introduced a bill, his first. Brief and to the point, it would provide simply that all appropriations, save those for war, would be available only in quarterly installments rather than for a full fiscal year.

Congress would continue to calculate requirements a year in advance, but the people who do the spending would have to appear before the appropriations committee every three months to justify expenditures for the preceding quarters.

If the committee, after due and painstaking checks, decided that too much was spent, the department involved would have its allotment for the next quarter cut down. The quarters would begin on the first of July, October, January and April. Appropriations would have to be OK'd 30 days in advance of those dates.

Weichel concedes congress would be taking a job for itself, but he thinks the result would be worth it.

"Why," he suggested, "there's no check whatever on expenditures at the present time. The various departments use the previous year's budget only as a guide for bigger and greater appropriations. There is no check from time to time on the expenditures of an appropriation until it is spent—and gone. There is a need like in private business for periodic checks in order to see what we're getting for our money.

He reasons that his installments would "save cash; prevent unwise spending; discourage waste and inefficiency; stop payment for overlapping services and employes, and deny funds in the following quarter where abuses and waste had been shown in the previous quarter."

LT. LOWELL E. F. LEFFLER

Lowell E. F. Leffler, 24, son of Mrs. H. G. Leffler of 299 Summit street, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army air force and received his wings at the graduation exercises held recently at Douglas, Ariz. He is now taking his advanced training at Blythe, Calif.

Lt. Leffler saw foreign service in Alaska and the Aleutian Islands, and was called from the latter place for his cadet training. In addition to receiving his wings he has been granted a gold star merit award for having completed his training course without accident. His name will be inscribed in the school's academy of fame.

Lt. Leffler volunteered March 14, 1941 at Fort Hayes in Columbus and was sent to Edgewood, Md., for training in chemical warfare service. In May of that year he was sent to McCloud Field, Wash., and the following July volunteered for foreign service and was sent to Alaska where he was in charge of his company's supply room. While in foreign service he was advanced to corporal, sergeant and staff sergeant and saw action at Dutch Harbor. After enrolling for flight training in July, 1942, he was returned to the states and began his training at Santa Ana, Calif., later going to Ontario, Merced and Palmdale, Calif., where he took his ground work and primary training, and Douglas, Ariz. At Douglas field, where he took his secondary flight training, he flew light and medium weight twin engine bombers. He has not had a furlough since entering service.

Prior to entering service Lt. Leffler was employed at the Ben Payton, Inc., garage. He was graduated from Harding High school in 1937. A brother, Richard Leffler, enlisted for service in February, 1942, and following an injury received in training, was honorably discharged from service in February this year.

Wyandot County At Half-Way Mark Today

UPPER SANDUSKY, April 23—Tabulations completed today showed that Wyandot county had raised $815,225, nearly 50 per cent of the Second War Loan drive quota of $1,994,000 as the official time passed the half way mark yesterday.

Mrs. Allen Moser, who is in charge of tabulation of the subscription blanks turned in by the solicitors, said the total number of subscribers now numbers 1235, most of them purchasers of series E bonds.

C. R. Crum, Wyandot county agricultural agent, head of the township sales organization, said according to information received at his office the rural sections of the county are doing better than most other rural areas in the state.

The largest amount sold to any single individual was $10,000, there having been two such sales.

Nothing Sacred About Tokyo

JAPAN'S efforts to ward off the forthcoming bombing of Tokyo with threats of reprisals against hostages are being wasted. Japan's war lords have been given a bum steer on American psychology. Americans are angrier now than they ever were before.

The next Japanese move to be expected is a campaign of nerves built around threats to bomb United States cities. The Japanese would have done that long before this if the bombing had been feasible.

In every move they have made in the war, starting with the campaign in Manchuria and including the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, Japan's militarists have observed no rule but expediency. They have followed faithfully the German war doctrine that anything which might further their ambitions is justifiable if they can get away with it.

The Axis leaders have set the pace. This is the kind of a war they have chosen to make it. They chose the weapons and the tactics. There is nothing sacred about Tokyo, or Berlin, or even Rome, just as there has been nothing sacred about Warsaw, Coventry, Rotterdam, Belgrade, Moscow and London. There is a limit to revenge among nations that take their obligations of civilization seriously—there will be no murdering of Axis prisoners—but to the full extent of their ability to do so the United Nations intend to prove to the international gangsters that they have no monopoly on the waging of modern warfare.

Neighbors—Good Neighbors

NEIGHBORS are not always good neighbors. The United States and Mexico, neighbors by virtue of geography, have sometimes been bad neighbors. The record shames both countries.

But the record has been improving. That is important. President Roosevelt has traveled into Mexico to see President Camacho, first visit between executives of the two nations in 34 years.

It will not be another 34 years before officials of the two nations meet again. Vice President Wallace is following up Mr. Roosevelt's visits to other Latin American republics; their executives, meanwhile, have been visiting the United States. Mr. Wallace has learned to speak Spanish.

Premier Stalin of Russia is said to be studying English, presumably for the purpose of conversing more intimately with officials of the nations which are coming into closer contact with his country.

Madame Chiang Kai-shek has been visiting in the United States, where she was educated. Even before this country entered the war as an ally of Great Britain, it had exchanged delegations of experts with that government in recognition of the impossibility of cooperation based on mere diplomatic representation. In Canada, where the tradition of neighborliness with this country has been strongest for the longest time, new possibilities have been revealed in day-to-day cooperation for the prosecution of the war.

The theory that mutual understanding must be at the basis of peace is being tested thoroughly in advance of the coming of the post-war era. Strangers can not be good neighbors. In the next post-war era there will be fewer strangers among the nations than there ever were before.

The Man in the Middle

ELMER Davis, director of the office of war information, is the new man in the middle—the latest innocent bystander. He deserves understanding, pity and assistance.

He will be lucky if he doesn't get the tar and the gumption beaten out of him. If that happens, the government will lose a good man who tried to do a good job.

The trouble is that the job he tackled probably can't be done. It probably is impossible in a country with a tradition of free speech for the government to issue "information" without the people smelling a mouse here and there until finally the smell of mice becomes overwhelming. It's in the nature of the American public and certainly in the nature of the press to be suspicious of information prepared, edited, censored and revised by the people it concerns—and that's what has happened to Mr. Davis. The eternal vigilance that is the price of liberty is no respecter of persons.

It's a tough break, but this is one of those situations where the battle can't be called off for the sake of one man or even a handful of men. It is something that began long before Mr. Davis got mixed up in it and will be going on long after he finally withdraws to write his memoirs. It's what the more discerning of the founding fathers were thinking about when they said there couldn't be a free people without a free press. Information that comes from the government, no matter how good it may turn out to be, is as open to suspicion, like a cold storage egg.

While congress wrestles with the task of trying to reach a compromise agreement on a method of collecting income taxes the people wait patiently with full realization that there won't be any compromise open for them when the time comes to dig up the dough, whether it be pay-as-they-go or pay-as-they-went.

The baseball season just getting under way should be unusually safe for umpires, with about everybody having no room left to hate anyone but Hitler, Tojo and Mussolini.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON. A [illegible] friend of [illegible] Willkie is like Maupertuis the Pierre [illegible] made a trip to Lapland.

No one from France had ever been there before. It was more or less a first and Maupertuis concluded without question that all the polar regions were similarly flat, and that the world itself was flat. He came back to Paris, wrote books, made speeches, and became the idol of the hour with his new proof.

In fact, Voltaire concluded, after listening to a few of the speeches and reading the books, that M. Maupertuis came to the conviction that not only the world was flat but, he was the guy who had made it flat.

My friend says Mr. Willkie has discovered only the fact that airplanes fly fast these days, and he has erroneously jumped to the conclusion that China, Mesopotamia, Russia and India are not only next door by airplane, but are practically living in our backyard.

He (Mr. Willkie) assumes that inasmuch as you can get to Timbuktoo quickly, Timbuktoo is the American way of life and a one world with us, sharing our ideals of democracies and our Christian way of life—and is practically the United States.

Doesn't Change Nations

What Mr. Willkie forgot to remember is that China is still China and Timbuktoo is still Timbuktoo. Their peoples still believe in all ways as they did before the plane.

They have their religion, their commercial ways, and peculiar domestic mannerisms of life. These are not our way of life.

The airplane has not brought them into the belief that democracy is the pure and only inspiration or that commercialism should work our way. They still have their generalissimos, their up-from-nothing communal ideas.

The airplane which brings them closer only carries us to them—if you happen to be going in that direction—much more speedily than before, providing you have the money or influence to get a ride. Perhaps this communication facility will eventually bring them around to our beliefs. Perhaps the Buddhists of India and China will be converted to Christianity in the end, or perhaps they may convert us.

When you get right down to it, Mr. Willkie has developed a mechanical fact into a political argument. We have lived next door to Mexico for generations. You could hop there over night, even before Mr. Willkie went around the world in an Army plane under Mr. Roosevelt's auspices.

But that did not bring Mexico any nearer to our way of thinking, our Constitution or even our business methods. Fast transportation may have helped a little, but everyone still knows today that Mexico is not the United States.

I [illegible] may not be popularly accepted. Mr. Willkie's book is supposed to have sold nearly 400,000 copies, and the dope in the publishers trade is that it will sell 1,500,000 before next summer.

People apparently like it and it is in truth a fair, restrained argument based on his very interesting experiences. It is a valuable book for these reasons.

Going Beyond Facts

Yet Mr. Willkie in his new discovery (my friend says Lindbergh really discovered it when he flew to Paris) is obviously reaching far beyond the facts of his revelation, and is accepting as true something which isn't.

My friend concludes that Mr. Willkie is just running for the White House in 1944 with all his might, literary, aeronautic and otherwise, and that he has concocted a plausible fable out of his magnificent adventures, which people are buying in large quantities.

As a fundamental truth, no matter where Mr. Willkie, or anyone else tries to lead us, he cannot change the leopard's spots. Contrary agitation in this country is not needed.

In the peace conference, Mr. Willkie, et al, will discover China is still China and Russia is still Russia, no matter how fast you can get there. This may be "one world" as it has always been, but it is still made up of a lot of different, competitive, eagerly commercial, inherently nationalistic people.

Called "Transparent"

"Mr. Willkie is painfully transparent. This was the case in 1940 when he ran his campaign on the principle that Roosevelt had done the right things, but was the wrong person to do them. He is now trying to hold the American conservatives while talking the language of the social-welfare faction. The world cries out (he says) to American do-gooders for education and sanitation.

"Mr. Roosevelt's internationalism is good in as far as it is internationalism. It is bad in as far as it cultivates the wrong companionships.

"Mr. Willkie would be just as international and even more so, for he understands how small the world is and where it is flat and where it is round. Only Mr. Willkie would cultivate the right companions.

"Mr. Roosevelt leans toward Churchill and the old school tie. Mr. Willkie has sat for five hours with Stalin and understands the heart which beats beneath the well-known tunic . . . of finely woven material . . . of a soft green or a delicate pink."

Army's Youngest General

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON—Being the youngest general in the Army has one annoying aspect for good-natured, 35-year-old Brig. Gen. William E. Hall, deputy chief of staff of the Army Air Forces.

The former tow-headed McAlester, Okla., boy, like any soldier, gets a kick out of winning his star as a brigadier but he doesn't like being tabbed as a "youthful military wizard."

For Bill Hall, say his fellow officers, is "a regular guy, the unpretentious kind for whom subordinates have always liked working." As a West Point cadet in the late twenties he became accustomed to doing his stuff without garnering a lot of glory.

He played center on the Army football eleven for three years when teammate All-America Red Cagle was riding high in the headlines. General Hall is a sinewy six-footer, weighing a trim 180 pounds now. He still looks fit enough to put on a rough and tough performance at his old position in the Army forward wall.

At air headquarters here they rate him as "an excellent pilot and observer, a good administrator and a sound tactician with a heavy endowment of horse sense." As a member of the air forces high command he has to have all-around knowledge of aviation operations and training.

General Hall is especially expert at handling big-engined aircraft. He frequently has been entrusted with the responsibility of piloting planes in which Secretary of War Stimson and General Marshal were riding. Flying is his favorite recreation.

He was graduated from West Point with the class of 1929 and went into the field artillery. He switched to flying in 1935. Besides playing football he was a star track performer at the academy for four years, running the 100, 220 and 440. He was captain of the track team in 1929, and won honors also as a marksman with rifle and pistol.

The 1929 Howitzer, Academy year book, has this appraisal of him by classmates:

"Bill has that inherent quality of leadership which causes his subordinates to follow cheerfully and willingly, not especially because it is an order but because they respect and admire him.

"He is straight-forward, frank and industrious . . . he stands out as a man who expects no one to do what he will not do himself and who accomplishes his objective regardless of difficulty.

"When the gods bestowed their gifts of nature upon mankind, they were unusually generous to Bill."

General and Mrs. Hall have two sons, 7 and 3 years old. This "youngest general" talk may perturb their father but the boys are going to have something to brag about to their playmates.

Congress Reviews Reciprocal Trade

Secretary Hull Wants Authority Continued Without Change.

EXTENSION of the reciprocal trade program this year is vastly more than a formality. Unless renewed within the next two months, the trade agreements act of 1934 will expire on June 12.

"Repudiation of the trade agreements program, or curtailment of its scope by amendment," Secretary of State Hull declares, "would be taken as a clear indication that this country which, in war, is bearing its full share of responsibility will not do so in peace."

While the administration has called for renewal of the trade agreements act without change, its leaders in congress doubt that a simple resolution to extend it for an additional three years can command the necessary majorities in the house and senate. Speaker Rayburn of the house has admitted that "a fight is likely," and Sen. George, chairman of the senate committee on finance, has suggested the probable need of modifications to make an extension acceptable to the senate.

Secretary Hull's call for extension of the act without change came as a surprise to many congressmen. It had been reported earlier that an extension for a shorter period and inclusion of a new provision allowing congress to set aside any particular agreement by concurrent vote of the two houses was being considered.

Lead-off man for the opposition would appear to be Roy Orchard Woodruff of Bay City, Mich. It was Rep. Woodruff who asked the most questions when Secretary Hull appeared before the house ways and means committee to make the initial, official appeal for the third three-year extension of congressional authority to keep in force the agreements now on the books.

FROM the nature of the questions which Woodruff put to Secretary Hull, it is possible to get an inkling of what's bothering the people who try to make a case against one of the most constructive programs of the Roosevelt administration.

Wouldn't the United States be better off, asks Congressman Woodruff, if after the war is over, our hands were not tied by any trade treaties?

Since we've been in the war, the Woodruff thesis continues, the costs of labor have gone up and the United States has reached a wage standard that will be prevalent for a long time to come. This leads to the belief that the American standard of living is now being raised still higher than its previous levels and that poses the question of how this country can continue to compete against the lower costs of production in other countries, after the war is over, unless new trade barriers are created.

From there, the question leads to offering a choice to the American government of following a policy that will give manufacturers of this country absolute control over domestic markets, or further experimenting in trade policies in an effort to bring peace to the world, even if the cost of that action is to be the loss of the American standard of living.

This whole issue resolves itself ultimately into the argument of high tariff vs low tariff.

The contention that the United States is a self-contained nation which can shut its doors against the products of other nations dies hard. Even the shortages of rubber and tin and hundreds of other strategic materials have not taught us that the United States, too, is a "have-not" nation in many respects, and must go out into the world market places and bargain for the very things it needs to maintain its much-vaunted high standards of living.

THE contention that renewal of the trade agreements policy would tie the hands of the United States government in promoting world trade after the war is worth close scrutiny.

When the war is over, the United States probably will be the strongest nation in the world, physically as well as commercially. It will have the least war losses, the greatest productive capacity. But if the United States is to say at the end of this war that it is to be bound by no rules now on the books, it doesn't take much imagination to figure what kind of world competition there will be.

Every agreement that tends to promote international trade will be something to hang onto for dear life, as a stabilizing influence. Every one of the nations with which the United States has a reciprocal trade agreement in force will know what it can expect as treatment for its exports, as long as these agreements remain in force.

Reciprocal trade agreements are now in effect with 27 nations. Agreements have been concluded with six nations—Argentina, Mexico, Peru, Uruguay, Venezuela and Iran—during the war period. Were the trade agreements act not renewed before its expiration on June 12 of this year, the present agreements would remain in force until abrogated, but would no longer be subject to periodic reconsideration and change.

The Republican position, as stated by Sen. Taft of Ohio and Rep. Dirksen of Illinois has been that it would be "unwise to make a political fight" at this time—that "no political party could afford to make one"—but that important changes are in order. Sen. Taft has proposed an extension of the act until six months after the close of the war, with all agreements subject to congressional review at that time. Rep. Dirksen, claiming agreement of his Republican colleagues in the house, has advocated amendments which would (1) assure adequate notice to interested persons before any agreement is concluded and (2) set up an advisory committee, representing agriculture, labor, industry, and the public generally, with authority to review projected agreements and recommend changes.

Blackjack

Old American Game Still Fa... Among Our Soldiers When Mo... Flows Like Water.

By DAMON RUNYON

THE Runyon [illegible] reveals that the game American game of blackjack holds [illegible] position among the favorites of the [illegible] World war.

I say American game, though blackjack [illegible] strictly American. At least not by [illegible] I rather imagine it comes to baccarat, a French game, the form going somewhat similar. [illegible] is another game known in this country [illegible] seven-and-a-half, which is closely related [illegible] blackjack, about the only difference [illegible] that in the former the deck of cards is [illegible] below the sevens to and including the deuces, [illegible] while in the latter a full pack is used.

I have no idea whence comes the [illegible] blackjack. Or perhaps it is more properly [illegible] jack. I make it one word because those [illegible] pronounce it at all say it as if it was. Maybe the title comes from the fact that a long run of bad luck at the game will [illegible] get a blue feeling in the noggin as if [illegible] had been poled by the weapon known as [illegible].

It is my impression that blackjack [illegible] under the American colored name, and [illegible] one that is used in the gambling houses [illegible] the game is known as 21. The whole idea [illegible] the player tries to get a hand totalling [illegible] as close to 21 as possible, while the [illegible] endeavors to beat that duke. It is a [illegible] handy game.

A moppet can play it as well as [illegible]. Its simplicity and lack of mechanics [illegible] account for its popularity with soldiers.

ALL you require is a deck of cards [illegible] money proportionately to their [illegible] soldiers always play for higher stakes [illegible] any other class of gamesters, especially [illegible] they are abroad, though as a rule it is [illegible] blackjack that sees the highest games. Around paydays when the money is most plentiful among the soldiers, the old "tats," or [illegible] are employed because they give faster and [illegible] general action than anything else. Blackjack [illegible] more of a diversion and less blood-heating [illegible] quieter than the dice, which is not infrequently [illegible] a consideration among soldiers.

Just now our lads are probably [illegible] blackjack for more different kinds of [illegible] than any other army the world has ever known. When American soldiers are in foreign [illegible] the local currency is always just so much [illegible] to them, and they bet it that way. The [illegible] est of the small town card sharpers and [illegible] craftiest of the big city slickers meet [illegible] and-head in army gambling and you see [illegible] on a scale to fairly lift your toupee.

Blackjack involves no particular card [illegible] It is all strictly a guess. The dealer passes [illegible] two cards to each player, one face upward [illegible] the other face downward. In starting, also [illegible] ing two to himself in the same manner, [illegible] paint-cards, as we call the illustrated [illegible] boards in our set, count for 10, the others [illegible] exception of the aces, counting for their [illegible] values. That is an eight is an eight, a nine [illegible] nine, and so on. The ace counts as one or [illegible] the player elects.

FOR example, if at the outset a player [illegible] a queen or a jack or a king in the hole [illegible] an ace exposed, he would count the ace [illegible] eleven, thus giving him 21 and a "natural." He would, of course, stand the hand and probably win. The only chance the dealer has [illegible] beating that hand is to tie it, the ties [illegible] running for the dealer. If the player should [illegible] have an ace buried and a trey exposed, he [illegible] total the two as four or 14, as he desires.

The chances are he would utter the [illegible] cry of the game, "Hit me!" If the dealer [illegible] him with a face card, counting 10, he [illegible] surely count his ace as one and would [illegible] have 14. He might stand on that and the [illegible] dealer deals to himself in an effort to beat [illegible] without going over 21. He has to guess [illegible] player's hole card, which could be an ace [illegible] giving him 21, a tough hand to beat. When [illegible] go over 21 in blackjack you are a DSF, a [illegible] dead stinking fish.

Blackjack has its fascinations. Did I ever [illegible] you the story of the lady who was addicted [illegible] the game and eventually suffered a [illegible] breakdown and had to be confined in a [illegible] sanitarium? (Stop me if you have heard it before.) Well, this lady was a most docile patient, [illegible] the only request she ever made of her attendants [illegible] was for a stack of toast, which seemed reasonable enough.

So they gave her the toast but as it [illegible] improbable that she would eat all that [illegible] they watched her one day. They saw her sitting [illegible] at a table with all the slices of toast spread [illegible] front of her and she would carefully lift [illegible] edge of each slice, peer under it and [illegible] remark: "Hit me." (Oh, I did? Well, forget [illegible]

URGES "OFF DAY" USE OF WORKERS

Cincinnatian Would Keep Men Busy 7 Days a Week.

By International News Service

CINCINNATI, O.—Employment of Cincinnatians engaged in office or industrial pursuits with a weekly "off day" as emergency help for farms and war effort jobs is suggested by M. R. Greiser, Cincinnati industrialist.

Terming his proposal a "labor conservation program" Greiser, president of Carthage Mills, Inc., and president of the Cincinnati Branch, Society for Advancement of Management, believes that "a feasible plan can be worked out for employment of manpower on their 'day off' from regular jobs."

"The plan is simple," Greiser explained. "A man having, we'll say Sunday and Monday off, might be glad to work on the farm or in a war plant on those days.

"Those assigned to war plants could be trained by training-within-industry which already is set up. There could be problems to be worked out with union labor leaders of course, but I believe these could be solved."

Declaring the problem is "deeper than just a current need for manpower in certain industries," Greiser explained that "it touches on post-war planning as well as the present."

Many workmen coming in from the farms later possibly may be sent back to the farms, he said. These must be replaced in order to maintain diversification of Greater Cincinnati industry and business for post-war economy.

Greiser's proposal brought indefinite reactions from labor spokesmen. Al Whitehouse, director of District 25, United Steelworkers of America (CIO), said "it would take an awful lot of planning, but it probably can be worked out if the situation really becomes acute."

John J. Hurst, president of Central Labor Council and an AFL spokesman, admitted the program has "many implications, but if the War Manpower Commission calls on us to help put it through, we'll sit down and talk it over."

Greiser, in commenting on his plan, said "the situation may not be acute at present, but we want to be ready for it. We want to pull out the stumps and get out the deadwood, so we'll get ready to go when the occasion demands."

Court Martial Trials for War Guilty Proposed

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

As we make our vows to punish the Japanese (and the axis powers as well) for their barbaric atrocities, the question arises whether it wouldn't be a good idea to formalize the general program and announce it forthwith as a joint United Nations determination.

If, for example, we could agree that all atrocities would be dealt with summarily at the end of the war by courts martial established by the armies of occupation, it might have a restraining influence on the enemy. There's a speed and finality about courts martial which the militaristic mind can appreciate, whereas a civil international court would hold few terrors.

One is impelled to this thought by remembrance that the allied cry in the last war to "hang the kaiser" and others for their "war guilt" finally petered out when it came to a show-down. David Lloyd George Britain's famous war-time prime minister, was one of the leading exponents of this project, and he even headed a victorious election campaign which featured this issue.

Trial Recommended

When the peace conference assembled in Paris in January of 1919 it immediately appointed a committee on war responsibility, and this body recommended that the kaiser be tried before a tribunal made up of representatives of the United States, Britain, France, Italy and Japan. There also was a black-list of 900 other German leaders and commanders, headed by little Willie, the crown prince.

Well, there were 22 countries entitled to join in demanding extradition of the kaiser from Holland, and their sentiment became divided. Many Germans, including the crown prince and Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, volunteered to stand trial for the all highest. The ex-emperor's sons appealed to King George of England to save his relative. The king was said to have remarked that he thought Wilhelm had been "well punished" already. The kaiser was reported to have threatened suicide, but he denied this in his memoirs.

Amid such an atmosphere of hemming and hawing, the allies made two demands on Holland for extradition of the emperor. Both were rejected, and the grandiose plan died.

There's no need for anything of that sort to happen in this war. The allied program, so far as has been indicated, contemplates military occupation of the enemy countries after unconditional surrender. It will be a long time before there can be a peace conference. Meantime military law presumably will prevail.

Better Way

The most expeditious way to dispose of murder atrocities and that sort of thing will be through the courts martial. The armies will have the facilities to round up witnesses while the atrocities are fresh in mind. Even such lofty criminals as Japanese Premier Tojo and Herr Hitler with his gang can be dealt with perfectly well by military courts. There's no need to go through all the rigmarole of setting up an allied tribunal with loud-speakers and motion-picture machines for the trials.

The war has reached a stage where the axis is badly worried, and the Japs know that they stand or fall with Hitler. This means our enemy is at the point where desperation may produce even worse atrocities than we have seen thus far.

The Japanese barbarians have insolently promised a "special pass to hell" for any further American airmen who bomb Japan—in other words, more executions. Only yesterday the British government announced it had received reports Hitler was preparing to use poison gas on the Russian front, and the Reds say supplies of gas already have reached the Nazi forces. The Boche deny intention of using gas, but they lie as easily as they massacre defenseless civilians.

Advance notice of establishment of courts martial to handle atrocity cases summarily might have a salutary effect at this critical juncture.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 23—An iron-clad censorship was clamped on all political dispatches out of Finland today and the tension which gripped that country in recent weeks appeared developing into an Easter crisis.

Reports from Helsinki indicated such a crisis might go far in determining Finland's position in the war, which she is fighting against Soviet Russia, as well as her relations with the United Nations.

German pressure on the Finns was said to have been increasing.

State Guard Reserve Authorized by Law

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 23—Gov. Bricker is empowered to create an Ohio military reserve "for the defense of this state" by a bill passed by the general assembly and awaiting his signature.

The reserve, supplementing the Ohio state guard, would be composed of "male citizens who are not members of the armed forces of the United States or of the state of Ohio."

Reserves would operate generally under regulations of guardsmen. They could not be used as peace officers in labor disputes.

Final approval of the measure came from the senate yesterday.

A request for the federal government to assume obligations and operation of the Miami conservancy district was contained in a joint resolution adopted by the senate and sent to the house. Author of the resolution was Senator I. E. Baker (R-Montgomery).

The Messerschmitt 323S are the largest planes in operation in this war. They are high-winged monoplanes with a wing span of 180 feet, almost twice that of the American Flying Fortress (which measure 103 feet, nine inches. They contain features of the Merseburg glider, attain a maximum speed of 160 miles an hour and have a range of 450 miles.

The allied fighters who opened the attack ran out of ammunition before the job was completed, but Australian fighters arrived at the scene in time to polish off the last three ME 323S.

The allied high command communique told of the new thrust by Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's forces in the Bou Arada sector, this following repulse of a limited German offensive in the sector of Medjez-El-Bab, 20 miles to the north, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The British Eighth Army meanwhile drove back more strong German counterattacks on the mountain line extending westward from a point just above Enfidaville and inflicted considerable losses on the enemy, it was announced.

Nazi Tanks Destroyed

The communique reported the number of German tanks known to have been destroyed in fighting in the Medjez-El-Bab sector Tuesday and Wednesday had increased from 27 to 53 with a further check of the battle area.

Improving weather brought intensive air activity. Medium and light bombers and fighter-bombers attacked enemy troops heavily and continuously, the communique said. Seven of the enemy planes destroyed were shot down in these operations.

Enemy airfields in Tunisia and harbor installations at Carloforte, in Sardinia, were attacked with bombs bursting on the targets selected, the communique said.

An attack by light British naval forces on axis torpedo boats off Bizerte, announced yesterday, was regarded as a warning to Rommel that the navy was ready should he attempt to evacuate his forces from Tunisia in the Dunkerque manner.

The British Eighth army, which was reported to have gained three miles north and west of Enfidaville since the offensive started in that area Monday night, was finding the Tunisian mountain fighting tough, with advances measured in yards.

(The Algiers radio, in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press in London, reported this morning that a special allied communique had announced occupation of the fortified village of Takrouna, five miles northwest of Enfidaville, by the Eighth army.)

Prepare Counter-Attacks

The desert veterans, accustomed to savage assaults with speedy breakthroughs, now take a hill only to find the Germans crawling out of caves and hiding places and trying to drive them off with counter-attacks. Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's artillery has been successful in breaking up most of these counter thrusts.

The allies face the task of driving the Nazis off their mountain lines with bitter infantry attacks. These mountain attacks seem certain to be slow and tedious with the Germans fighting for every inch of the ground, but there is a possibility that the enemy line may be breached in a sudden thrust.

This would permit the overwhelming allied armor to reach the plain leading to Tunis and, if successfully followed up, would cut the Nazi forces in half.

If such a break-through is not achieved, the bitter Tunisian fighting may go on for weeks as Rommel battles right down to the beaches.

Although the main fighting recently has been done by the first and Eighth armies, United States and French troops were reported making active and penetrating patrols on the section of the front assigned to them.

JAP TRIAL

a half foot by nine cell in Sugamo prison the day of Pearl Harbor. It was bare and unheated and, through the winter, water frequently froze in the bowl.

There I remained until June 2, when by virtue of the diplomatic exchange arranged between the United States and Japan I was taken to an internment camp. The only reason the Japanese ever consented to any civilian other than the diplomatic personnel leaving Japan was that she had some 200 army and navy officers in the United States as spies in civilian clothes and she wanted them back badly.

Questioned Hour After Hour

I was questioned, hour after hour, by a crew of three officers, the leader of whom was Inspector Takehara, a squat, pudgy little man with a brilliant mind. He soon became my personal conception of the devil—and always will be.

I once asked him whether he ever stopped thinking about my case.

"No," he said, seriously, speaking through the interpreter, "Never. Not even when I go to bed."

All the newspapermen in the prison were accused of sending "stories detrimental to Japanese diplomacy." As the law was worded, I couldn't have sent a message to The Associated Press saying the sun was shining in Tokyo without a direct violation.

We were question from early morning until as late as 10 o'clock at night, day after day, from January until March. At that time I was presented with a bulky document in Japanese — which I couldn't read, of course—and was told it was a transcript of the questions and answers.

After I was taken to court I found it was a confession—that I had been guilty the bleak March day I signed the document with a thumb-print. All the court had to do was to sentence me.

Japanese law, which was written by a Frenchman, is based upon the old code of Napoleon, and is as enlightened as the 1800 to 1810 period in which it was conceived.

Courtroom Bare

The courtroom, large and plain and so empty every voice had its echo, was closed to spectators. There were three judges, the procurator, a bailiff, an interpreter, clerk and an unidentified Japanese who sat off to one side.

The trial didn't take long. The procurator stated his case, and the chief judge solemnly asked some questions. Then the man on the side got up and spoke vigorously for at least ten minutes. Afterward, the interpreter said he was my attorney. I had never seen him before; he had never examined the records of the case. That was my defense.

Afterward, the procurator asked an 18-months sentence. That was what the judge gave me—suspended so that I could be exchanged. I spent five more days in prison after the trial, just to make sure I couldn't appeal the verdict.

I was not told about the possibility of exchange ships until June 2, but the Japanese knew about the negotiations early in February. Therefore, all of the legal rigmarole was just to satisfy that queer quirk in the Japanese mind about proper procedure.

Exactly the same thing probably happened to the American aviators. They probably were subjected to torture and endless hours of questioning, then given a military trial which could have but one outcome—that the prisoner was guilty. But that wouldn't have satisfied the Japanese passion for a proper pattern.

SOOT SUIT is Army's version, maybe, of the well-known zoot suit. At least, this example certainly has a wonderful drape shape. Usually of a lovely dusty road gray or a dirty rag black, it is made of burlap and designed to hide Johnny Doughboy from the enemy.

Easter Assembly Held at Edison Junior High

"The Need of the Easter Message" in our lives was the theme of the Easter assembly Wednesday afternoon at Thomas A. Edison Junior High school. The Scripture reading and prayer were given by Rose Mary Warren followed by vocal solo "The Lord's Prayer," by Florence Hayman with Mozell Haas at the piano. Rev. Dana Austin of the Fifth Memorial Baptist church spoke on "The Need for and Truth of the Resurrection."

Senior Girl Reserves, sponsors of the program each year, presented the Easter message in song. A human cross was formed by 14 girls attired in vestments, who sang four numbers with Grace Cyders singing the solo part. Those making the cross were Mary McCaulley, Esther Markley, Avonell Spicer, Donna McClain, LaVada Scott, Grace Cyders, Grace Crizer, Delores Sweringer, Wilma Lee, Dorothy Bolander, Jane Lashey, Rosa Ann Nicolosi, June Holliday and Betty Bond, president of the Girl Reserves. Louise Caldwell and Alice Marquis sang an Easter duet and Bonnie Borland gave an Easter reading "A Soldier's Prayer" by Joyce Kilmer.

Stage arrangements were in charge of Joan Lauhner. Misses Maxine Baker and Mary Jo Stafford were facility advisors. Monday and Tuesday morning at 8:30, in the auditorium the girls conducted morning meditations with the students attending.

SPEAKER SELECTED FOR MEMORIAL DAY

W. C. Beer, Bucyrus Attorney, Named; Parade in Afternoon.

Selection of Attorney W. C. Beer of Bucyrus as the speaker for the Memorial Day exercises, Sunday, May 30, appointment of committees and initial plans for the annual observance were made at a meeting of the Memorial day committee Thursday night at the Legion Dugout.

The parade to Marion cemetery where the exercises will be held will be at 1:30 p. m., instead of in the morning as has been the custom for several years. The change in time was made in order not to conflict with the morning church services in the city and community.

Col. T. E. Andrews was named president of the day and Major George T. Goran will serve as grand marshal for the parade. J. W. Llewellyn will serve as vice president for the day and Fred H. Morrison was named music chairman. Other committees will be named and final arrangements made for the exercises at a meeting of the general committee May 17. At this meeting all patriotic, fraternal, civic and service organizations are asked to have representatives, J. E. Messenger, general committee chairman announced. Harry G. Baker served as secretary.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS REV. S. M. INGMIRE

Club To Sponsor School Choir Concert Next Wednesday.

Rev. S. M. Ingmire spoke on Easter, emphasizing that Jesus was a man's man at a meeting of the Kiwanis club at Hotel Harding yesterday noon.

It was announced that Harding high school's a cappella choir will give the annual concert Wednesday, April 28, sponsored by the Kiwanis club under the supervision of the school committee composed of Harold Nusbaum, R. A. Garvin and Carter M. Patton. It was also announced that R. A. Donley, service director for the U. S. Rubber Co. at the Scioto Ordnance Plant, and a member of the Marion Kiwanis club is leaving this week for New York City where he will assume new duties with the company.

Dwight D. Gimmeson, manager of the Singer Sewing Machine store on South Main street and a former Kiwanian in Lima, was welcomed as a new member. Guests were W. L. Jenson, new service director of the U. S. Rubber Co. here, Stanley Luke, employment manager of the U. S. Rubber Co., John E. Artopoeus, housing and recreation manager of the U. S. Rubber Co., C. H. Schinzel, assistant fire marshal of Toledo, and William Vapess who is home on a furlough from the U. S. Navy.

Next week's meeting will be in observance of fire prevention week and will be a joint meeting with other service clubs of the city at the Masonic Temple Tuesday.

1,256 Drivers Arrested for Excessive Speed

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 23—The state highway patrol arrested 1,256 automobile drivers on charges involving excessive speed and warned 2,108 others against exceeding the 35-mile federal speed limit on state roads during the first three months of this year, Supt. Lynn Black reported today.

He reported 52 arrests in Trumbull county and 32 in Richland county in February, the largest totals in the state during the three-month period.

In each instance, Black said, the name of the offender and the license number of the car involved were forwarded to the office of price administration.

The OPA, which previously warned that such motorists would be denied new tires or retreads, recently suggested that local rationing boards also withhold gasoline from most of those arrested or cited.

ACCURATE TRIMMING of steel plates is necessary before they are ready to be welded into ships, so this worker at the Kearny, N. J., shipyards cuts away a few inches of unwanted metal. With his acetylene torch he trims the plates so perfectly, they fit within a fraction of an inch when hoisted down and placed in the hull.

U. S. GRANTS FUNDS FOR GALION NURSERY

City Given $9,505 for Child Care Project.

Special to The Star

GALION, April 23—That Galion will be able to operate to [illegible] nursery [illegible] in addition to the care [illegible] children of working mothers was indicated yesterday in a telegram received by the Galion board of education from Senator Burton.

The message stated that the Lanham Act application made by the Galion board of education has been favorably acted upon by the federal government, and that Galion schools will receive certain money to carry on two nursery schools and to care for school-age children of working mothers.

Money needed for these projects amounts to $18,185, the government's share to be $9,505. The remainder of the amount is raised locally and is comprised largely of fees that are charged the parents, a small amount per week, for the purpose of providing food for the children.

M. A. Povenmire, superintendent of schools, said today that the development of the program will depend upon the needs of the community.

A large percentage of the children now enrolled in the one nursery school in operation, are those of working mothers. The program will operate under the supervision of the board of education and the child welfare committee of the civilian defense council.

9 COUNTIES START BLACKOUT PLANS

Marion Civilian Defense Leaders To Meet Monday.

Marion and eight other counties today were in the midst of preparations for a test blackout, announced yesterday by state defense officials in Columbus.

The blackout is scheduled for some time in May. Local officials said they understand it is to come in the last week of May, [illegible] but the exact time will be announced [illegible]

W. E. Shutt, commander of Marion's civilian defense organization, said leaders of all units will meet Monday night at the control center on North State street to check final plans for the test.

He said there is some uncertainty about Marion's participation because state officials have insisted that this city have a more adequate system of warning signals before another test is held. Since that ruling was issued the city civilian defense organization has purchased sirens but can not obtain materials to install them.

It is expected a 20-minute blackout will be staged in which both the city and county will participate. All street lights, business and residence lights and lights on automobiles and trucks must be darkened. Factories will not be required to black out, but may if they care to join in the test.

Outside the city, area coordinators at various communities will direct the activities. These are Walter Lange at LaRue, Lee Scott at Waldo, George Sheridan at Green Camp, T. L. Behrens at [illegible], [illegible] Adam at Caledonia and V. E. Anderson at Morral. The rural areas of the county are so divided that all townships fall in the territory served by one of these community leaders.

It is estimated between 2,000 and 3,000 persons connected with civilian defense units will swing into action when the test is staged.

Westfield Church Group Meets at Nichols Home

ASHLEY — The [illegible] Society of the Westfield [illegible] Church met Wednesday with Mrs. [illegible] Nichols north of Ashley. Mrs. N. [illegible] Davis read devotions. Dry, Hot Weather Awaited For Verdict On New Ball

By LARRY SMITH
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND, April 23—It appeared today the final report on the 1943 official baseball with the balata core would not be rendered until after a period of warm, dry weather.

Members of the Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers attended a clinical examination of the new ball before yesterday's game. A manufacturer's representative officiated as surgeon. He cut open a ball and found that the yarn which surrounds the cork and balata center was tightly wound and seemingly damp.

The discovery may indicate the new ball is more sensitive to weather changes than the old one, that it has absorbed dampness from the air and that dry, warm weather may make it much livelier.

The reverberations continued from the office of Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds and National league representative on the committee which adopted specifications for the new ball. Giles' remarks indicate he may not wait for any change in the weather.

The Redleg official said the manufacturer admitted the new ball was 25 per cent deader than last year, blamed it on the substitute for rubber cement between the cover and yarn, and promised a remedy.

"If they don't we'll use our own make of baseball," Giles threatened. "I don't care if the league knows out every game we play. The present ball will kill the interest in baseball."

The Indians' series with the Detroit Tigers will be resumed tomorrow and concluded with a double header Sunday.

The Tribesmen were a party to a 4-0 shutout yesterday but this time they wound up on the zero end.

Virgil Trucks, the Tigers' speedy sophomore right hander, held the Redskins to four hits while his mates rapped Mel Harder and Pete Center for 11 blows.

It was a scoreless duel between Trucks and Harder for five innings but Detroit notched a run in the sixth to start the victory.

LOMBARDI SIGNS

BOSTON, April 23 — Ernie "Schnozzle" Lombardi, heavyweight catcher of the Boston Braves, finally ended his holdout siege yesterday when he signed a contract with the Boston National league club.

Cards and Reds Repeat Opener

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 23 — The Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals take a day off today to get up from trying to hit the ball.

Yesterday they played the Wednesday opener all over again and afterward General Manager Warren C. Giles of the Reds said he was going to hire himself as a pitcher if they had to keep using that 1-0 extra-inning ball.

That one yesterday's score in ten innings, with Ray Starr getting such credit as anyone will give for the Reds' second straight victory. He held the world champions to five hits.

The Reds and Cards both punched away here and there to get men on bases, and the Reds put on their characteristic ninth-inning scare. They filled the bases, but that was all.

In the tenth Lonnie Frey singled, was sacrificed to second, and went to third on Max Marshall's single. Frank McCormick was purposely passed and Eddie Miller popped out, but Bert Haas singled the run in.

Empty Stands Add Another Worry to Front Office Woes

By HUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 16 games that have been played in the new major league baseball season have convinced almost everybody the new balata ball is dead—that a lot of balata—not the goodness of the ball has not alarmed as many persons as the deadly emptiness of the stands for the early games.

Unfavorable weather has been responsible in varying degrees and in certain instances, such as the tiny turnout of 5,860 fans in big Yankee stadium yesterday to see the American league champions edge out the Washington Senators, 5-4.

Reds Draw 1,897

On the other hand it had nothing to do with the fact that only 1,897 persons went to Crosley field in Cincinnati to see another pitching classic in which the Reds again whipped the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, 1-0 in ten innings.

The small attendance goes deeper than the weather. Many thousands of baseball fans are now in military service and countless others are too busy in war work to get to games on week-day afternoons. The Major leagues may have to play more night games and possibly will experiment with morning contests.

WESLEYAN RELAYS TO BE RUN SATURDAY

Wooden Trophy Event Draws More Than 500.

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., April 23—The "wooden trophy" twelfth annual Ohio Wesleyan high school relays are scheduled Saturday, with more than 500 boys representing 37 schools participating.

George Gauthier, Wesleyan athletic director and founder of the team-play classic, predicted the entry list would climb to some extent, but would not approach the 1100 figure of a year ago.

Included in the entry list are Cleveland East Tech, winner a year ago in class A, and the Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home, class B victor the last three years.

Due to the scarcity of metal for trophies, this year's awards will be made of wood. Preliminaries will be run off Saturday morning with the finals in the afternoon.

Prospect Wins Track Meet

Winner of 43 straight track and field dual and triangular victories in the last nine years, Prospect's star-studded thinclad team posted No. 44 in opening its tenth year by nosing Pleasant 78¾ to 71⅓, in a dual affair at Prospect yesterday afternoon. It was the first regular meet of the season for the two teams.

The meet was close all the way with Prospect commanding a slight lead from the start. A track made heavy by several rains in recent weeks prohibited any attempts to break existing records.

Leading the scorers with 13¼ points was Prospect's Dodrill. Dean Cusick of Pleasant was second with only one-sixth of a point less than Dodrill. Dick McCurdy of Pleasant took third honors with 12¼ points and Charles Schorr of Prospect was fourth with 10⅔ points.

Dodrill placed first in the 100 yard dash, covering the century in 11 seconds, leaped 19 feet, nine inches to win first place in the broad jump, ended third in the 220-yard sprint and was a member of the winning 880-yard relay team.

Dean Cusick was the only other double winner, copping the 220 and 440 dashes.

Oddity of the meet was in the high jump event in which six competitors, three from Pleasant and three from Prospect, tied for first place at 5 foot, two inches. A similar situation occurred in the pole vault event in which four boys tied for first at nine feet, two inches.

Prospect stars won first places in eight of the 13 events, including four first in the five field events.

Final score—Prospect 78½, Pleasant 71¾.

Bowling

Marion Recreation Center's eight lanes were on a full schedule Wednesday night with the Ladies' All Star and Universal Cooler leagues downing the maples at the South Prospect street alleys.

P. Snyder captured practically every individual honor in sight among the feminine bowlers by rolling high single games of 168 and 198 and top series of 555. Her third score was 169. Other single game leaders in the ladies' loop were E. Boughton with 176, G. Gunder with 171 and 177, and L. Watson with 174.

At the top of the one-game column in the Universal league was Penhallow with 230. He was seconded by Zant with 216 and E. Jones who blasted 202 for the 12 frames.

The three-game series scores for each Ladies' All Star loop and Universal Cooler league roller follow:

ARMORY WRESTLER WINS A FALL, THEN LOSES IT QUICKLY

Reversed Decision Strips Vansky of Victory in Mat Card Here.

In one of the most unusual Armory wrestling bouts in many months, young Juan Vansky, the former Kearney N. J. strongbuilder, won a fall—and a decision and in less time than it took him to win he was stripped of his victory.

Vansky, packing a 10 pound weight advantage combined hair pulling, kicking, choking and the general round of fouls with a vicious body slam and press to decision his French-Canadian opponent, Rene La Bell in the first fall of their scheduled two-hour scrap. The first canto went 11 minutes before Vansky pulled the surprising trick.

Reverses Decision

Not content with the one fall verdict Juan Vansky jousted La Bell in the ring after the fall. Referee A. Cook of Lima reversed the decision and awarded the fall to LaBelle over Vansky's heated protests.

Vansky came back strong to dispose of LaBell in 13 minutes for the second fall, using a body press and toe hold.

Employing his famous Canadian dive bomber act, LaBell cut down Vansky for the third fall and deciding fall in five minutes.

Promoter Les Fishbaugh was forced to rearrange his preliminary card as a result of an injury suffered earlier in the week by Steve Nenoff. The Toledo Greek's opponent Rufus Jones, also failed to show because of the death of a close relative. In their place Fishbaugh brought in Soldier Thomas of Portland, Ore., and The Phantom.

Battle To Draw

Thomas and the masked Phantom battled to a draw with the Phantom notching the opening fall in 14 minutes with a reverse full nelson and Thomas evening the match by taking the second fall with a body press. During the second section of the 45-minute tussle, both Thomas and the Phantom engaged in moderate fist fighting.

A step over toe hold and a disqualification by Referee Cook provided Buddy Knox of Nashville, Tenn., with an easy victory in the other 15-minute affair. After losing the first fall to Knox in 13 minutes Perona proceeded to gouge Knox's eyes at the out set of the second. Cook immediately ended the fight.

MICHIGAN ORDERS LIQUOR RATIONED

Allotment Likely To Be Quart a Week.

By The Associated Press

LANSING, Mich., April 23 — The state liquor control commission today placed all liquor outlets in the state under rationing and announced it would follow through as soon as plans can be completed with a program of rationing liquor to individual consumers, who meanwhile will be limited as strictly as possible to one quart a week per purchaser.

All retail outlets will be limited to the purchase of 60 per cent of the amounts they have purchased in the first four months of 1942, save that no large privately-owned liquor store may purchase more than $30,000 worth this year.

All drinking houses, hotels serving liquor by the glass and club licensees may purchase their quotas once a week, and only on a day designated by the manager of the state store from which the individual draws his supply, the order said, while specially designated distributors, the privately-owned liquor stores, may purchase only once every two weeks on a day designated by the store manager of his supply depot.

EMPTY STANDS

while easily thrashed the New York Giants, 5-2, in their getaway before 16,775 fans at Ebbets Field. Ed Head pitched six-hit ball and his teammates got him four runs in the first three innings. The Giants' Manager Mel Ott made four hits and batted in both runs.

The Chicago Cubs turned the tables on the Pittsburgh Pirates with a 4-3 triumph. A long fly by Phil Cavarretta with the bases loaded in the seventh was needed to break a tie score although Claude Passeau and Eddie Hanyzewski held the Pirates to five hits.

First Home Run

At New York Joe Gordon came through with the first home run of the major league season, but it took a double by Roy (Stormy) Weatherly with the bases loaded in the last of the ninth to bring the Yankees from behind and subdue the Senators. The Yanks were outhit 8-6.

Tex Hugson, 22-game winner last year, chalked up victory No. 1 but shutting out the Philadelphia Athletics, 1-0, on three hits, but the once ferocious Red Sockers were held to two hits themselves by Jesse Flores and Roger Wolff.

Virgil Trucks pitched a 4-0 four-hit shutout for Detroit against the Cleveland Indians to avenge the Tigers' opening day whitewashing.

U. S. FORCES SEIZE SMALL ISLE GROUP

Ellice Atolls Action Revealed by Jap Bomb Raid.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 23—Occupation of islands in the Ellice group in South Pacific by United States forces was disclosed by the Navy today in a communique telling of an enemy bombing raid on American installations there.

The Ellice group is approximately 1,100 miles east of the Solomon Islands and lie on supply lines to the South Pacific and Australia.

This little island group of nine atolls last was mentioned in a Navy communique in October, 1942, when it told of a surface engagement there. It was assumed then that the Japanese had moved in, possibly with land positions.

Today's communique said that light casualties to American personnel were suffered and minor damage was inflicted in the bombing raid. Funafuti, the scene of the bombing, is the latest island in the group. Its width varies from 50 to 150 yards and it is about 6.8 miles long.

The whole island is covered with cocoanut palms and the principal village is at an anchorage beside a lagoon.

Naval spokesmen said that the occupation of the island by United States forces was unopposed. The date of occupation was not given. It was assumed that if the Japanese were on that island they were only in small and isolated groups.

Judge Will Stephenson Dies in Cincinnati

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 23—Judge Will P. Stephenson, 75, of West Union, former member of the Ohio state supreme court, died today in a Cincinnati hospital.

He entered Good Samaritan hospital here two weeks ago when the heart ailment from which he had been suffering for several months became more pronounced.

Judge Stephenson held court in 41 Ohio counties and served on the common pleas bench in Adams county for 18 years, from 1914 to 1932. Governor George White appointed him to serve an unexpired term in the state supreme court in 1932. He was a Democrat.

BALL PLAYER DIES

By The Associated Press

HILLSBORO, O., April 23 — Kirby (Red Buck) White, one-time room mate of Honus Wagner and pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates, Boston Braves and Chicago Cubs, died here at 59. He also played with Kansas City and Indianapolis of the American association and Lancaster of the Ohio State league.

IN PREHISTORIC DAYS

Colorado grew figs, magnolias, cinnamon trees, palm trees and other tropical plants—a hundred million years ago. In those days the state supported creatures like the dinosaur, who prided along on feet three feet in length and two and a half wide, and the uintacolotherium, a nightmare of an animal the size of a small elephant and a brain no larger than a sheep's who, nevertheless, sported six horns and two enormous fighting tusks. Fossils like these and many other grotesque monsters have been discovered in Colorado and are to be found in museums throughout the state.

Italians Hold AP Man As Special Prize from Africa

By PAUL KERN LEE
AP War Correspondent

FORT SAID — Larry Allen and Godfrey H. P. Anderson, Associated Press war correspondents now prisoners of Italy, are among the most popular men with their fellow-prisoners, judging by the words pouring unsolicited today from British seamen exchanged for Italian captives.

Allen, Maryland-born veteran of AP service, is in a camp in Italy with 20-foot stone walls and much barbed wire. It formerly was used for anti-Fascist political prisoners and now houses prominent war prisoners, including 40 American fliers, field service ambulance drivers and some civilian internees.

The 787 British prisoners exchanged recently at Mersin, Turkey, for 863 Italians and Germans reached here.

Many of them sought me out, explaining:

"Are you an Associated Press man? I want to tell you about Larry Allen."

One was a lieutenant from the destroyer Sikh and was captured with Allen at Tobruk last Sept. 13 when the Sikh was lost during commando operations. The lieutenant said Allen got ashore in a lifeboat and was hospitalized for about two weeks for a cold caused by the chill of the wetting, but now was in excellent health.

From the start, the Italians treated Allen as a special prize, took him to Italy from Derna by plane, respectfully called him "lieutenant" and smilingly refused to heed his arguments that he was a correspondent and therefore a non-combatant.

Allen, undaunted, wrote letters to Pope Pius XII, President Roosevelt and other notables, but his fellow prisoners were not sure the Italians ever forwarded them. The other prisoners recently were surprised when Allen got a letter from the American secretary of state, Cordell Hull, addressed to "Lieut.-Comdr. Allen," telling him there was small chance he would be exchanged.

Several of the exchanged prisoners testified to the address on the letter and theorized that it would help Allen to receive better treatment from his captors. The prisoners believe Allen never will be exchanged because the Italians were angry at some of his stories and fearful he would write even more revealing articles if he ever were free.

As an example of the lengths to which the Italians went to keep Allen from telling his story, the men who were released from his camp were the only ones not informed they were being repatriated. All the others were told they were going home, but those from Allen's camp merely were informed they were being transferred, so Allen would be unable to send any messages by them.

They said it was surprising how much they were able to get from reading between the lines of Italian papers, and they actually were pretty well up to date on major news events due to this sifting.

Radio Features Planned for Easter Week-End

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 23—Specials for the Easter week-end will include an Anzac day program for NBC at 7 Saturday evening and a Hollywood bond variety show on CBS at 11:30 Sunday night.

The Anzac broadcast is to present among others Dr. Herbert Evatt, Australian minister of external affairs, Sister Kenny, and Ronald Colman in an original James Hilton sketch from Hollywood. It is hoped to obtain a pickup from Algiers also.

The bond show, with James Cagney as M.C., lists its talent as Dorothy Lamour, Bing Crosby, Pat O'Brien, Martha Raye, Carole Landis, Al Jolson and others.

In the Easter schedule on the BLU is a special concert by stars from the BLU—soprano Josephine Houston and baritone Wilbur Evans, with Josef Stopak's orchestra.

Richmond, Va., Man New C. & O. Railroad Official

CLEVELAND, O., April 23—Appointment of John E. Parrish of Richmond, Va., as vice president of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. was announced today following the organization meeting of the board of directors, in Cleveland. Mr. Parrish had been assistant vice president of the road since 1926. In that capacity, he had jurisdiction over the safety activities of the company and had charge of personnel relations.

Mr. Parrish has been with the C. & O. for approximately 42 years, having started July 1, 1901, as clerk in the office of the agent at Newport News.

J. Fred Andrews, assistant comptroller of the Chesapeake & Ohio, Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette railroads, was today appointed comptroller of the three lines, succeeding, in that post, E. M. Thomas who was elected vice president of the C. & O. Lines last month.

Harry L. Lehmkuhle, general auditor of the Nickel Plate, was advanced to the office of assistant comptroller of the three roads.

Associated Press Features

Do you want to live to be useful and effective after 80?

Then consider these tips from four wise old men:

DR. NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER, president of Columbia university, credits his effectiveness at 80 to a program he follows faithfully. It was given him by a physician after hard work left the educator near exhaustion in his early 30's.

"He said that he was of the opinion that if I went on as I was going, I would use up my strength in less than 10 years and wreck my nervous system," Dr. Butler recalled recently. "Then he gave me the following definite advice which I have followed as scrupulously as possible for nearly half a century.

"Do not get up before 8:30 in the morning, dress and have your breakfast slowly, read the morning newspaper, walk for 15 or 20 minutes in the open air and reach your office about 10:15 or 10:30. Then work as hard as you please until 5 o'clock; whether you stop for luncheon or not is unimportant. At 5 o'clock, return home, undress and lie down for an hour. Go to bed, psychologically as well as really; do this in a darkened room. If you sleep, well and good; if you do not sleep, never mind. Eat your dinner slowly and then pass the evening as you like. This will mean going up to your work by an inclined plane and coming down from it by an inclined plane, instead of getting up and hitting it in the face, or jumping from desk to dinner.

"Administrators haven't grasped the fact that they can do 12 months' work in nine or 10, but that they can not do it in 12. Stay away from your office every Wednesday and every Saturday. On those days, play golf or otherwise divert your mind and nervous system, and get the advantage which that rest will bring. You can do more work that is worth while in the other four days. What is important is to break up the pounding upon the nervous system. Take at least two or three weeks' holiday in mid-winter. Also take at least two months in the summer and be sure you spend those two months where you can really divert your mind and exercise your body.

"There you have the program my physician outlined," Dr. Butler went on. "I have followed it scrupulously ever since it was given. I look back on this advice as fundamental to the work which I have done and to the preservation of my splendid health."

Dr. Butler added that the bulk of the administrative work of the university was done by his associates, who referred to him only new problems, questions of principle or proposed expenditures in excess of the budget.

"I hope to keep up this system as long as I live," he said. "Were I to have no work to do for Columbia university, I should die within three months."

GUSTAV V, Sweden's 84-year-old king, who has one of the toughest jobs in the world, keeping his country neutral in wartorn Europe, contributes other ideas. He leads an extremely busy life, from the time he breakfasts at 9 till he retires at midnight. Handles affairs of state in the morning, plays tennis several times a week, hunts and fishes—but now scorns golf as a "game for old men."

He never discusses the secret of maintaining so energetic a program in his 80's, but his physician says the store of energy which makes it possible springs from his young outlook on life good nerves and moderation in habits. The king eats light foods, smokes but a little and drinks wine only occasionally.

Gustav V believes that anyone who lives a regular and moderate life, avoiding excesses, can be as active as he in old age.

WALTER S. GOODLAND, who became governor of Wisconsin last January when the governor-elect died and who is 80, attributes his activity at fourscore to something else.

"It is my belief that my health and vigor are largely due to heredity," he says. "My father was serving as a circuit court judge until he was 85. And my grandparents all lived to be more than 80."

CONNIE MACK (Cornelius McGillicuddy) who is still manager of the Philadelphia Athletics at 84, has something different to say:

"For years I have felt that I could get along better with less food," he says. "So my breakfast consists of fruit, cereal and one cup of coffee. I lunch on a bowl of soup. But I eat a fair meal at dinnertime. I retire at 10 and arise at 7 to 7:30 in the morning. I do not vary from this day in, day out. I always take a rest in the afternoon too, even if only for about 20 minutes."

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

MY FATHER suddenly smiled at me, and before he spoke I divined that my victory was won.

"You may keep your hat on," he said. "I have no reason whatever for keeping Jack and Katharine apart. I suppose you would like permission to go down to the hideaway and reason with Jack."

"Or use a rolling pin, if reason fails," I said, feeling a bit giddy with my unexpected victory. "But Father," more seriously, "please do not think I am taking this lightly. I simply cannot stand by and see Katharine suffer so unnecessarily without trying to do something about it."

He turned to the telephone and spoke crisply into it.

"Please send Winters up to me immediately," he said.

Notes to Gus and Jack

Then he sat down at the desk and hurriedly wrote two notes, one very brief, the other longer, and handed them to me to read.

One, addressed to Gus, simply said: "See that Mrs. Graham sees Mr. Bickett," and was signed with my father's full name. The other, addressed to Jack, was more familiar and more elaborate.

"Dear Jack," it ran. "Margaret is determined to see you. She discovered by accident that you are at the hideaway, and I have confirmed her discovery. I advise you not only to see her, but to grant the request she will make of you. Of course I have no right to coerce your decision, but I feel very strongly that you will make no mistake if you do what she asks. Affectionately, Spencer."

Uneasy About Madge

"Give the first to Gus as soon as you see him," he said, "but keep the other until you see Jack; otherwise he might refuse to see you. But Gus will see that you meet Jack face to face, and before he has any warning of your coming. Winters will escort you down there and bring you back. Please expedite your return. I am always uneasy when you are away from the city."

I was [illegible] a package of personal [illegible] and, [illegible] cases, [illegible] and took me by taxi to [illegible] a key.

[illegible] he never moved a muscle [illegible] and read it slowly, then looked at me [illegible]

"Mr. Bickett, he said, [illegible] see anybody," he said. "I don't know what he'll do to me if I take you in."

"You don't have to take me in," I said. "Just take me into the next room. Is the door locked?"

"Yes, he always keeps it locked."

"Do you have a certain knock which he knows?"

"Yes, two knocks, repeated three times," and he showed me on the door I had entered.

Taken by Surprise

"Now," I said, "leave me in the room next to his, and Mr. Winters will stay here with you. You will not be responsible for anything I may do, so Mr. Bickett cannot blame you. These are my father's orders."

"I'm sure glad of that," Gus commented dryly, then ushered me into the room next Jack's and lost no time in shuffling out again.

Feeling as if my heart was in my throat, I gave the signal knock, then leaned heavily against the door. When Jack opened it, I pushed through it and past him.

"Margaret!" he said wildly, when he had regained his composure. "What does this mean? How did you find out—"

"Read this," I interrupted thrusting my father's note into his hand. "It is a message from my father. After that I will explain to you why I am here."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

To Find Malnutrition

DO YOU know whether you are getting enough food?

Since we have been warned that this country is facing a serious food shortage, since my colleagues and I are already beginning to see in dispensary clinics examples of rickets and scurvy such as we have not seen for 30 years (at least in this corn-fed section of the country), it may be well for every citizen to be alert to the signs which may indicate that he is not getting enough food, or not enough of the right kinds of food.

Malnutrition often comes on so subtly that you are not aware of its encroachments. Weight change is not a criterion, as we shall explain below. Under conditions of food shortage a fellow may want to fill himself up and feel reasonably comfortable, so he eats the most concentrated, the richest foods he can find, and looks fat and plump, but really is in a state of hidden malnutrition.

I have said for years that the statements emanating from high authorities, that one-third of the American people were suffering from vitamin deficiency and malnutrition, were absurdly exaggerated, sensational and alarmist in character. But that was at a time of food abundance in the land. I am well aware that in a country where food is so scarce it must be rationed, the vitamin deficiency diseases appear and develop by leaps and bounds.

That was abundantly proved by the widespread malnutrition in the populations of Germany and Austria after World War I. (In other countries too, of course, but we have the detailed medical reports of the American War Relief Commission and Quakers on the conditions in Germany and Austria.)

On would think that weight would be an infallible criterion. But by the ordinary standard tables a child or an adult may be considerably underweight and yet be in splendid nutrition, and conversely the overweight, with all his fat, actually undernourished. A better method is the so-called grid technique (published in this column Nov. 25, 1942), which gives a long-range picture of growth and weight changes.

Growth and weight in children, however, even though not infallible, are valuable indices, and a record of your children's weight and height each week is a good thing to have in these troublous times.

"Through new knowledge nutrition has already extended into a new, a vast domain," writes Dr. H. D. Kruse of New York. This is the domain of the vitamins. There are many chemical and blood tests to determine the early stages of vitamin deficiency. But they are too elaborate to employ on large groups of persons. Your doctor should know the general signs of the early stages of malnutrition, which he can determine rapidly by simple means. Consult him regularly.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, April 24

WHILE THE mentality may be keyed to brave plans and creative ideas, making for exceptional achievements, yet the entire scope of affairs may be beclouded by a menace of deception, intrigue and suspicious undercurrents. Persistent efforts and clever resourcefulness or originality may bring success. But watch for a sinister or disintegrating influence in intimate relations or romance.

Those whose birthday it is may be able to avert an undermining and sinister attack by brilliant tactics, originality, and industrious endurance.

A child born on this day may have much sound ability and ingenuity fitting it for public service or high adventure. But deceit and intrigue may underlie its domestic or romantic happiness.
